Emeco

Timeless Design for the Modern Outdoors

A curated Emeco selection, offered by Landscape Forms

Landscape Forms and Emeco share a deep respect for truly timeless design. Purposeful form, enduring materiality, American craftsmanship and long-term performance shape the foundation of this partnership.

The Emeco pieces offered through Landscape Forms carry that shared perspective into the daily life of outdoor space, supporting the moments of gathering, pause, work and relaxation that ask furniture to feel good, wear hard and last beautifully. The chairs, stools, tables and lounge seating are quintessential, refined and resilient, familiar yet elevated, and built for the demands of life outside.

Founded in 1944, Emeco began with a challenging brief from the U.S. Navy: build a chair that was lightweight, non-corrosive, fire resistant and strong enough for life aboard ships and submarines. The result was the 1006 Navy Chair®, handcrafted from recycled aluminum in Hanover, Pennsylvania through a proprietary 77-step process still used today.

More than 80 years later, that legacy continues in furniture that is recycled and recyclable, strong yet lightweight, easy to maintain and built to be kept. This curated Emeco selection brings timeless American design to the terraces, campuses, hospitality settings, civic spaces and public landscapes where outdoor experience is made to last.

1006 Navy

The original icon. Created for the U.S. Navy in 1944, the 1006 Navy collection brings strength, light weight and all-weather durability into a form that has remained timeless across generations. Built by hand from 80% recycled aluminum, each chair and stool is welded into a single-piece form without hardware or fasteners, then finished in Emeco's signature hand-brushed clear anodized aluminum. Available in chairs and counter- and standing-height stools with or without arms, the collection offers an enduring, iconic solution for dining, hospitality and high-use outdoor environments.

Navy Lounge

The softer expression. Redesigned by Jasper Morrison from Emeco's original 1940s sofa series, Navy Lounge carries the heritage of the 1006 Navy Chair into a more relaxed, social expression. Available through Landscape Forms as a lounge chair and two- and three-seat sofas, the collection pairs handcrafted recycled aluminum frames with removable cushions for comfort, flexibility and long-term use in indoor-outdoor environments. Upholstered in Sunbrella Heritage outdoor textile in Slate, Papyrus or Sky, Navy Lounge brings Emeco's material intelligence to settings made for gathering, lingering and ease.

1 Inch

The versatile essential. Also designed by Jasper Morrison, 1 Inch translates Emeco's renowned aluminum craft into a strong, simple and highly adaptable family of stools and tables. Made from one-inch square aluminum tube with perforated detailing and built for heavy-use indoor and outdoor environments, the collection is lightweight, stackable and visually concise, with a quiet interplay of rounded and rectilinear form that works easily across cafés, terraces, campuses and flexible gathering spaces. Available in all-aluminum stools in dining, counter and standing heights, and tables in dining and standing heights, 1 Inch offers a refined foundation for spaces that need to move, change and endure.

Heritage Rocking Chair

The modern heirloom. Designed by Philippe Starck as a complement to the classic 1006 Navy Chair, the Heritage Rocking Chair lends the familiar American typology a sharper, more enduring presence outdoors. It's a rare object in public space—recognizable, slightly unexpected and immediately inviting. Made for porch-like pauses, easy conversation and moments of quiet delight, it pairs the craft and material expertise of Emeco with the singular design wit of Philippe Starck. Timeless, resilient and meant to be kept for generations, the Heritage Rocking Chair gives outdoor spaces a moment of warmth, memory and distinctive design.
